Craft Blows Up in Harbor at Port Huron Sunday Afternoon

BOILER THROWN 250 FEET INTO NEARBY DWELLING

Sets Fire to House. Which Burns to Ground

PORT HURON, Mich.—Four men were killed, two boys are missing, and property damage estimated at $100,000 was caused by a boiler explosion on board the ferry boat Omar L. Conner Sunday afternoon. The explosion shook the entire downtown district. The boiler was thrown 250 feet into a dwelling. The dead, R. A. Campbell, chief engineer of the ferry.

Tom Backer, deck hand.
Kenneth Crandall, deck hand.
Clifford Allhouse, fireman.

No One on the Vessel

Those who were killed were at work on the ferry. No one else was aboard the boat at the time of the explosion.

Two boys, Earl Reed and a newsboy, as yet unidentified, who were standing on the dock, disappeared, and are believed to have been killed. Three persons were injured, none seriously.

The dwelling into which the boiler was thrown caught fire and was burned to the ground. The owner of the house William Smith and his family were attending a movie.

Surprise for Mourners

A steam radiator was thrown 1,000 feet into the chapel of Albert A. Park, where a funeral was in progress. Mourners were injured by splinters. Glass was broken in store fronts two blocks away.

The explosion was due to scarcity of water in the boiler, it is believed. The boat was tied at the dock in Black river.

BOYS APPRENTICED TO BUSINESS MEN

First Business Indentures Approved
by State Commission
Last Week

MADISON, Wis.—The first business apprenticeship indentures were approved by the industrial commission during the past week. E. E. White, secretary announced Monday. The first indenture was made in a Milwaukee commission house which agreed to teach a boy traffic work, while several druggists have indentured boys to teach them the elements of pharmacy in addition to salesmanship and business methods.

The industrial commission says that it regards business lines as a new and promising field for apprenticeship. It plans to organize representative committees to draw up schedules of training and to see whether it is advisable to set a standard scale of wages for each locality.

During February the number of indentured apprentices increases 25, according to the commission, with 40 new contracts approved, and ten apprenticeships completed and 10 contracts cancelled. Seventeen new contracts in the building trade were approved.

SEPARATION SEQUEL OF BOY'S MARRIAGE WITH STEPMOTHER

NEW YORK.—The romance of John Vandergrift Pittsburgh oil man's heir, who married his stepmother six months after his father's death, in 1915, has ended in separation, it was learned through proceedings in state supreme court. Young Vandergrift, who was 22 when he married his stepmother, obtained a temporary injunction restraining her from disposing of a part of his fortune which he said he transferred to her care at their marriage.

LOUIS F. SWIFT, JR., JAILED IN CHICAGO AFTER AUTO CRASH

Trial Set for Friday on Charge of Driving Car While Intoxicated; Two Boys Injured

CHICAGO.—Louis F. Swift Jr., of Lake Forest, son of the banker, spent four hours in jail in Evanston Sunday charged with driving his automobile while intoxicated.

His car collided with an automobile in which four Evanston high school boys were riding on Ridge avenue near Grove street. In the Swift car were Mrs. William A. Swift, formerly Helen Morton, and Miss Elizabeth Chase.

William Swift, who recently paid a fine to Police Magistrate D. M. Miles key at Wilmette, for driving his car while intoxicated, managed, four hours after the smashup, to persuade Police Magistrate John F. Boyer to release his brother on bonds of $200. His trial was set for 2 o'clock next Friday afternoon.

P. J. Bageman, 2606 Central Park avenue Evanston, owner and driver of the car with which the Swift machine collided, had with him Horace Lane, 1033 Asbury avenue; H. Schmidt, 2406 Park place, and Theodore Sanderson, 2705 Hartwell street. Lane and Sanderson were cut on the face and hands by flying glass.

"The Swift car was north bound in Ridge avenue and crashed into the boys' auto, according to what the lads told me when I hurried up to the accident," explained Policeman Ahrens, who arrested Swift. "The boys were driving south in Ridge avenue."

On the parkway in front of St. Mark's Episcopal church, where the smashup took place, police found two bottles of liquor. A revolver and two clips of bullets also were found in Swift's car, police said.

HEARING ON GAS RATES ORDERED IN MILWAUKEE TUESDAY

MADISON, Wis.—Investigation of motion of the railroad commission of gas rates in Milwaukee will be held Tuesday March 28, at the Milwaukee city hall. Order for a reduction is expected to result from the hearing this week.

Hearing on proposed increases in telephone and electric rates in a number of small Wisconsin cities and villages will be held by the commission during the next two weeks.

STATE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE MEETS IN MILWAUKEE IN MAY

Annual Convention Will Discuss
Plans to Fight Agitation for Return of Beer

MADISON, Wis.—The Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league will hold its state convention in Milwaukee, May 23 and 24, according to an announcement Monday by R. L. Hutton, superintendent. The league expects to have 10,000 persons sign the call for the gathering, Mr. Hutton declared.

Law enforcement in Wisconsin, the most effective means of dealing with liquor law violations, and consideration of plans to counteract the agitation for return of light wines and beer, will be the principal subjects discussed at the convention.

There is a likelihood that the Anti-Saloon league representatives at that time will map out a course to be followed in the September primaries when candidates for the state legislature are selected. They expect to wage a fight for representatives opposing return of light wines and beer, and to elect "dry" legislators in districts now represented by the so-called "wets."

Congressman A. W. Barkley, Kentucky, and John G. Cooper, Ohio, will address the meeting. Effort is being made to have Roy A. Haynes, federal prohibition director, and A. J. Volstead, author of the Volstead prohibition enforcement act, present for the convention.

A little kindness has to go a long way because the supply is short.

NINE AND ONE-HALF MILLION COLLECTED IN PROPERTY TAXES

Over Five Million Paid into State for Roads; University and Normal Schools

MADISON, Wis.—Total general property taxes of $9,504,564.23 were collected this year through state assessment, of which $5,221,359.36 has been paid into the state treasury for highway, university and normal school purposes, Henry Johnson, state treasurer announced Monday.

Of the total assessment, $3,102,952 was retained by the counties as their common school apportionment, $922,605 was retained for care of the chronic insane, and $267,646 for care of tubercular patients in the county sanitariums.

The state highway tax resulted in collection of $1,700,000 the final levy provided for by the legislature. University and normal school taxes amounted to over $3,000,000.

Treasurer Johnson has placed the $5,221,359 in 404 Wisconsin banks, depositories of the treasury department, who pay three per cent interest for use of the money. Twenty-four depositories were added during March when the general property taxes were paid.

All general property taxes due the state have been paid into the treasury, according to Mr. Johnson. Income taxes are due May 1, the state retaining only ten per cent of the total income revenue, expected to amount to approximately $6,000,000 of which 70 per cent goes to municipalities, and 20 per cent to counties.

Railroad taxes are due June 1, when further revenue of nearly $7,000,000 will be added to the state treasury.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT THE UNIVERSALIST CHURCH TWO NIGHTS

Rev. Luther Riley Robinson, mid-western superintendent of the Universalist church, will preach Monday and Tuesday evenings in the Universalist church, Cass and Eighth streets.

Mr. Robinson will have for his subject Monday evening at 7:30: "The Fundamental Differences Between Universalism and Other Christian Faiths." This will answer practically all questions about the doctrines of the Universalist church.

Mr. Robinson will also sing "The Ninety and Nine" at the service Monday evening. He was a singing evangelist for many years.

Mr. Robinson preached at the Universalist church Sunday afternoon. He gave an outline of his work in the large district which he serves and spoke with great optimism of the future of his denomination.

He complimented the church in La Crosse on its progress under the able leadership of Rev. Nellie M. Opdale, the pastor.

The public is invited to hear Mr. Robinson while in the city.

FORCED BY TORTURE TO REVEAL SECRET OF HIDDEN FUNDS

Los Angeles Storekeeper Branded With Hot Irons by Party of Five Men and a Woman

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Sheriff's deputies Monday were searching for five men and a woman, Sunday reported to have tortured with red hot rods Mike Mapalnich, a storekeeper at Compton, near here, forcing him to reveal the hiding place of his savings and escaping with $110 in cash and $125 in stock.

Mapalnich's condition was serious, though physicians said he would recover.

The storekeeper staggered into a friend's house, bruised, bleeding and with great welts burned on his body. Deputies later found a note advising Mapalnich to leave $500 at a designated place next Sunday or "suffer the consequences."

According to his story five men and a woman alighted from a car and forced him to re-enter the store. There he said, they asked him where he had hidden his money and when he refused to say, beat him. This failing he added, they stripped him to the waist, heated some rods on a kerosene stove and began branding him. He then told them where to find the money.

Just a Real GOOD Car SOME FACTS

The first Durant automobile was placed on exhibition in New York City on August 4, 1921. On October 22, 1921, there had been signed orders and deposits placed by dealers for 30,842 DURANT CARS. All of these were specified for delivery prior to July 1, 1922.

World's Record Shipment

Five hundred Durant Fours in one solid trainload (100 Steel Cars),—the largest shipment on record to a retail dealer—left the New York plant of Durant Motors, December 30, 1921, billed to Earle C. Anthony, Inc., California.

This was the fourth big trainload shipment from this plant during December, three of them going to the Pacific coast.

The value of the record-breaking shipment was $335,500; its weight, 1,165,000 pounds; the freight charges, $66,650.

Dealers' applications for this and adjacent territory are now being received by Mr. Charles Brown at the Stoddard hotel. See Mr. Brown and have him explain to you the advantages of the Durant contract. He also has some advance information pertaining to the future that we are not permitted to place in public print at present.

Today's Big Mystery

A MYSTERIOUS object—apparently the petrified sole and heel of a shoe—has been discovered in solid rock far under the surface of the earth. The discovery was made by Albert Knapp, mining prospector, in blue limestone of the Humboldt mountain range, Nevada. The triassic rock, in which this peculiar object was embedded, was formed between 100,000,000 and 300,000,000 years ago. So says Dr. William D. Matthew, paleontologist of the American Museum of Natural History, to whom the fossil was rushed.

John T. Reid, mining engineer, thinks Knapp's find is a clue to an extinct civilization that existed millions of years ago. If so, more youngsters in time are the Piltown Skull and Java Ape Man which, scientists say, date back hundreds of thousands of years.

The "fossil" found by Knapp is a perfectly shaped sole and heel for a shoe worn by a modern ten-year-old boy. It has beveled edges as smooth as could be made by a shoemaker's knife. Inside these edges are two rows of neat perforations such as would be made in stitching the sole to the shoe's upper. Furthermore, it is the same color as leather—possibly due to iron sulphide, which, however, was not present in the surrounding rock. Veteran cobblers, who have examined the object, insist it is unquestionably the work of a master shoemaker.

Dr. Matthew says that Knapp's find is an accidental creation of the period before man first appeared on earth. It is the most perfect specimen of its sort ever found, better even than the recently discovered stone that looks amazingly like a petrified human eye. Farmers have noticed such freaks of nature in gourds or potatoes that mature into striking likenesses of human or animal faces, minutely accurate copies. Chinese scientists, who believe that civilization travels up and down forever, like an endless chain of hills and valleys, would pronounce Knapp's find the real thing.

It is important, whether you believe in it or not, for it calls attention to how little man knows of the earth's past. William Jennings Bryan, who is fighting the followers of Darwin's theory of evolution, might stir up a hornet's nest by contending that the Piltown Skull and similar trophies, which scientists recognize as remnants of prehistoric man, also are accidental creations, like Knapp's petrified shoe.

New Light on France

In the interesting review of the French position in relation to the current condition of Europe which we published on Sunday from the pen of Frank H. Simonds there was a most significant item that should do much, if broadly disseminated in this country, to dissipate the prevailing suspicion and hostility toward France. We refer to the statement that more than half of the French budget is devoted to reconstruction. Mr. Simonds said:

The truth is that French financial ruin is due not to military or naval purposes, but to the reparations. France has spent almost uncounted billions getting her devastated areas back to production. She has advanced this money against ultimate German repayment. If Germany does not repay she will be bankrupt, even if she reduces her defensive expenditures to next to nothing. Ten percent, I think, of the French budget goes for defense, but much more than half for reconstruction.

This throws a light upon the position of France widely different from that in which she has been usually represented in the United States. We have complained of the continued failure of the French to make ends meet, of their mounting deficit and apparently willful refusal to attempt the balancing of the budget. It seemed a just complaint on the explanation generally given, that France's chief pre-occupation was with a swollen army, stern enforcement of the occupation privileges given by the treaty of Versailles and a general attitude of militaristic imperialism. Mr. Simonds' explanation depicts a France beggared not by preparation for future wars of conquest, but by repairing the damage of a past war of invasion and aggression from without. There is a great difference.

Of course, Mr. Simonds is known as a friend of France, and his disposition has always been to spread the mantle of the best possible explanation over the movements of French policy. But on the other hand much of what we have heard concerning France has come from quarters quite as biased against her. No doubt the truth, as usual, lies somewhere between the two extremes.

One prediction hinted, rather than definitely pronounced by Mr. Simonds, would if verified go far to justify his point of view and to remove the hostility and doubt with which French motives are analyzed. That would be the reduction of the French term of conscription from three years to one year, thus reducing the size of the French army by 100,000 men. This, if Mr. Simonds' figures are correct, might not make a great deal of difference in the French deficit. But it would be a very striking answer to the enemies of France who depict her now as endeavoring to build up in Europe the same sort of military, sword-clanking domination which Germany was forced to relinquish.

Smooth the Park Approach

PERHAPS the most-favored drive of all within the city limits is through Riverside Park. And perhaps the worst crossings in the city limits are those which bar the land side of the park. On every one of the three streets leading into the park the railroad crossing at the foot of the hill is a hurdle that must almost literally be leaped by automobiles. The rails stand several inches above the decayed pavements of the streets, and are only to be crossed with a series of bumps and jolts that arouse fears for springs, to say nothing of the jarring of the occupants. We suggest that in the city improvement program which will shortly be launched there should be included the small-but extremely conspicuous job of mending these crossings. Riverside Park is one of the chief items in our just pride in La Crosse, and its smooth drive at the river's edge is beloved of the citizens and a magnet for visitors. It should not be necessary to rack the bolts out of a machine in order to enjoy it. We doubt if there is another place in the city where the Board of Public Works could earn so much commendation from so many people for such a minute expenditure of time and money.

People

BOSTON gives birth to an organization called The Common People, Incorporated. As you probably suspect, the purpose of this outfit is uplifting, investigating, reporting, advising and working for "evolving better political and civic betterment for that class of people known as the Common People." This adds another to the confusing number of rings the people are urged to watch in the mammoth political circus. The side-show makes the most talk. Most of these organizations of the common people are like the three famous tailors who solemnly drew up the document starting, "We, the people of England."

We often express our gratitude when it should be sent by air mail.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
That the stone pile which was provided at the county jail at the beginning of the year has proved a saving proposition for the county despite the fact that no "rock pounding" has been done thus far is the declaration of Peter Lehner, chairman of the grounds and buildings committee of the county board. Mr. Lehner says jail expenses have been reduced materially because tramps, who have every winter made the La Crosse jail their headquarters, were warned of the institution of the rock pile and managed to get through the city unnoticed.

It is rumored that several farmers of Caledonia township and Trempealeau county are planning on bringing mandamus proceedings against La Crosse county to force it to pay its share of the expense in the repair of the McGilvray bridge and the road leading to the bridge.

The Wrong Number

By R. RAY BAKER
It seemed that the girl at the central office never would make the connection. Hal Golden fumed, for he was always in a hurry, especially when talking over the telephone. Of all the irksome activities of his business life, holding a wire conversation was the worst. "This in spite of the fact that the telephone was his daily bread."
Finally he heard a click and knew some one was answering. A woman's voice said, "Hello, and what can I do for you?" Hal launched into the business at hand.
"I'd like to speak to Frank," he said.
"Frank?" the woman's voice repeated. "It was a singularly sweet voice. The owner must be quite captivating. If she was anything like the intonation of her speech, Hal had no time for women, no matter how captivating. His only experience in love had taught him a lesson.
"Yes, Frank," he said brusquely, but not quite so brusquely as he usually spoke. "Isn't this Frank Jarvis's residence?"
"No," replied the young woman, "you have the wrong number, I guess."
"Beg pardon," he said and hung up the receiver.
This was getting to be the limit. For the third time this week, while calling from his home, he had been connected with the wrong number. Why was he having such trouble with the service? He would have to look into matters himself. If other subscribers were having the same trouble, he would call on the manager of the Spence office. Tomorrow he would talk in the club. He would call on the girl who had been making these mistakes, and if necessary had dismisse her from her position. On some other day, he'd give her one more chance.
He called again and this time had no trouble in getting Frank Jarvis on the line. He had really been engaged when the earthquake occurred. The calamity was a sudden termination of the engagement by Mildred. He had never thought of her as an unreasonable girl, but she appeared that way now, for there was no other reason in evidence for the break in relations but the fact that Hal had come to a theater and a dance while Mildred was out of town on a visit.
Hal had thought it would be all right to spend a couple of his lonely evenings with Inez, because she was a fellow worker, being employed in the telephone office. She was an attractive girl, but not the equal of Mildred. To Hal's way of thinking, Mildred had been his girl, and he had no intention of giving her up to any other young ladies, if he chose, while she was gone, because, she assured him: "I intend to have a good time myself." That had been in accord with her long-cherished idea.
But the first time Hal called after Mildred's return, she told him all was over and handed his ring back to him, and before he came to himself he was walking down the street in a most unpleasant daze.
It was some time between you and some one else" was all she had offered by way of explanation. She had seemed more and more angry, but she always had remarkable control of her temper.
He tried twice to heal the breach, but received no encouragement, and finally was forced to the conclusion that Mildred, while having a "good time" on her visit, had met some one who considered more desirable. Unable to stand in the same town with Mildred after the change in the situation, he obtained a transfer to Sparks, where he worked so earnestly in order to keep himself in this line of work, that he dimpled rapidly to the management. Now he called himself a "woman hater!"
All this passed in review in Hal's mind as he sat in his bachelor apartment that night, but finally he cast thoughts of Mildred aside, shrugged his shoulders, smiled bitterly, knocked the ashtray from his pipe, and retired.
The next evening his experience with the wrong number was repeated. Furious, he called central and said shrilly:
"This is Mr. Golden, the telephone manager. Four times this week you have given me the wrong number, and

"I've had the best luck!" said Maynard, overlooking Joe on his way to school. "Look here what I've got." He pulled out a typewritten sheet from his pocket and showed it to Joe, taking care that no one else was watching.
"Why—why it looks like the questions for tomorrow's history exam," said Joe.
"Not only looks like it—it is," declared Maynard, enjoying Joe's surprise.
"Where did you get it?" Joe demanded.
"Out of the sky. Honest, though. It was just good luck. I went back to my study room seat for a book last night, and there right by my desk a piece of paper was fluttering. I picked it up, and here it is."
"Must have blown off Miss Perleham's desk," said Joe.
"Sure it did. You know she always gives out her questions on typewritten sheets like this."
"But you aren't going to look at them, are you?" Joe asked, looking at Maynard wonderingly.
"Look at them? What do you suppose I'm going to offer to help me out. I'm going to turn down the chance. Why waste time reviewing the whole thing, when I can work out these answers? I'll let you have a copy, if you want to save some time." "No thanks," said Joe shortly, turning rather and shrugged his shoulders. As another boy joined them, the next day Joe was at school early to look up some things on the big map. He felt nervous, for he knew the exam would be hard enough. He had studied his book before. It seemed unfair to him that he should get a low grade for being "sneaky." Maynard came in, looking confident, and gave Joe a glance which seemed to say, "I'll bet you regret being so good today."
The bell rang. Miss Fordham passed out the writing sheets. Then she stepped to the front of the platform. "I'm testing out two sets of questions," she announced. "One set goes to every other row. Rows one, three, and five should have questions marked A. The other rows should have questions marked B. Make sure you have the right one."
One glance at Maynard's face told Joe that the trick of the March wind was a joke on Maynard.
Joe: "If a burglar breaks into the cellar would the coal chute?"
Joe: "No, but the kindling wood."

REAL WRESTLING LESSON 9

By FRED MEYER
175 Pound and Heavyweight Champion Amateur Wrestler of United States

When I was in grammar school one of the favorite playground sports of our bunch was to grab some fellow around the waist, "bear hug" him, force him to the ground and a wrestling match was on hand.
Maybe some one has tried the "bear hug" on you. Then you know how it saps your strength and how helpless you are when the very breath is squeezed out of you.
That same hug is used frequently in real wrestling matches. But the wrestler upon whom the hold is secured is not slow to break free from it, and the break illustrated on the left side of the picture printed here is about the most effective I know.
When your aggressor places his arms around your waist, quickly put your fore arm against his throat. Take hold of the wrist of that arm with your other hand. Arch your back away from your man. Lower your head. Then push against his throat with all your might. You will either force him so far away from you that he cannot retain his hold, or, if his hands do remain clasped, his body will be bent so far back it will be an easy matter for you to slip from under his arms.
Fearing a fall should he rise to his hands and knees, a wrestler sometimes stretches face down on the mat and "hugs" it. It is extremely difficult to work on a man in this position. To force him up, take hold of one of his feet and pull up on it as shown on the right side of the picture. To get greater leverage place your other hand on his back. A slight twist of his ankle will make the trick more effective. Don't use too much force when pulling on the foot, nor too hard a twist on the ankle.

TO-DAY'S PUZZLE

The letters in the title of a certain book have been given consecutive numbers from 1 to 11. 2, 1, 11 spell a space of ground; 4, 3, 5, 8 spell a scene; 10, 7, 9, 6 spell to move. What is the name of the book? Solution to-morrow.

"This," said the young man, "is the engine boiler."
"Oh," said the girl, "tell me, why do they bolt the engines?"
"To make the engine tender," he replied.
"If you eat another piece of cake you'll surely burst," said mother.
"Then pass the cake and clear the Respected little brother."

It appears now that I was wrong. Three years ago, when I made you take the ring without any explanation, I should have asked if you loved Inez. It was not my fault. Inez was standing beside her now and he interrupted with:
"It is never too late, and I'll answer now. I never saw a thought to ever meet a friend, and she cared nothing for me, I am sure. Why, I never even recognized her voice on the wire, didn't know she was living here, in fact."
He fumbled in a pocket and brought forth a ring.

J. OGDEN ARMOUR CALLED TO TESTIFY IN U. S. HEARING

Charge of Monopoly Made Against Armour Company
at Kansas City

INTERFERED WITH COMPETITIVE
MARKET CLAIM OF GOVERNMENT

Hearing Held Under Provisions of U. S. Stock Yards Act

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—With J. Ogden Armour of Chicago, president of Armour & Company, subpoenaed as a witness, the federal department of agriculture's hearing of charges against the packing company opened here Monday.

Charges of monopolistic practices in the conduct of the livestock yards here, tending to depress the price of hogs and interfere with an open and competitive market were brought against the Armour company, January 22, 1922, by J. P. Swift and Frank Witherspoon, livestock commission men, acting for the Kansas City livestock exchange. Violation of the federal packer-stock yards control act of 1921 is charged. Under the provisions of that act the hearing held before a commissioner of the department of agriculture, J. T. Mayner.

Thirty-nine associations of livestock producers and farmers' associations have joined the local livestock exchange in the charges against the Armour company.

LA CROSSE ELKS LEAD IN STATE BOWLING TOURNEY

Expect Total of 2,804 Pins for Five Men Team to Land
Bacon for B. P. O. E. Meet

The five-man team of bowlers representing the La Crosse lodge took first place Saturday at the Elks' bowling tournament at Appleton, with a total of 2,804 pins. While there are still a few teams to roll in the tournament it was said that most of the strong teams had already turned in their scores, and there was believed little chance that any of the subsequent five could tip the representatives of No. 300 out of first place.

The La Crosse second team rolled a total of 2,539, having a bunch of hard luck to meet. Both teams were slightly below form, the leaders said on their return, having travelled all day and gone right on the alleys upon their arrival.

This factor was held responsible for the failure of the local bowlers to show up strongly in the doubles and singles. Each man rolled nine games, and after the day's travel they were lacking in pep for such a hard grind.

The scores follow:

WOMEN ARE TAKING MUCH INTEREST IN IOWA ELECTIONS

DES MOINES, Iowa.—By The Associated Press.—Voters in many Iowa towns and cities were electing city officers Monday. Reports indicate women are taking great interest and are actively engaged for their favorite candidates.

In many cities women are candidates for office and a number will be elected. Issues in today's elections mostly relate to local tax problems, bond issues, law enforcement and Sunday motion pictures.

If that expedition finds the top of Mt. Everest it will be a fine place to put the Arkhuc case.

"SATURDAY NIGHT"—RIVOLI

One of the finest pictures seen here in many a day is Cecil B. DeMille's "Saturday Night," which is showing with the Style Show for interest at the Rivoli this week. The story is one of exceptional appeal and the action throughout is as rapid as it is thrilling. The leading roles are in the capable hands of such players as Leatrice Joy, Conrad Nagel, Edith Roberts and Jack Mower. The picture is worth seeing. The story was written by Jeanie Macpherson, author of many De Mille screen classics and the cast is specially all star.

The story deals with the marriage problem, the efforts of environment on humans and allied questions and Mr. De Mille has handled them with the skill and artistry for which he is famous. As might be expected in a De Mille production, "Saturday Night" has been produced on a lavish scale and there are unusual thrills in the development of the story.

CONWAY TEARLE—MAJESTIC

"The Man of Stone," starring Conway Tearle, will begin a three day engagement today at the Majestic. "The Man of Stone" is a composite of the conventional society play and rippling up-to-the-minute melodrama. It touches life at the poles; runs the length and breadth of human passion; displays a variety of scenic vision and photography as good as it is varied.

Capt. Neville Deering, D. S. C., of the British Army, after discovering that his fiancée, Lady Portescue, has left him, leaves England for active service with the Colonial in Arabia. There he meets a little Arabian girl whose devotion opens his eyes to the falsity of his affection for the unloving Lady Portescue. Lady Portescue, once awakening at last to her mistake, follows Deering to Arabia hoping to be forgiven. Complications arise and the real human struggle involved in the story, quickens.

WINNERS COMING

John D. Winniger opens Sunday April 2nd, at the Riviera Theatre for one week only with a stock company which is supreme in the middle west. Play "20 East" as reviewed by Rockford Republican.

A capacity audience of appreciative members of Rockford Woman's club attended the Winniger players' production of "20 East" yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock in Rockford theatre. The women applauded the play enthusiastically throughout.

Life in a boarding house was typically portrayed by the stock company in the play which Constance Diney made famous. Miss Dorothy Russell, who played heroine was delightfully denature and the hero, Leonard Lord was at once appealing as the lover and the earnest man of the world.

"Mr. and Mrs. John Winniger furnished the comedy parts in the characters of O'Brien and Mrs. Smith, boarders, the latter a "butter" person. Mrs. MacFarlane, keeper of the boarding house, was well done as were the parts of the Count and a sly boarder, Miss Sadie Clarence."

STRAND MONDAY AND TUESDAY

A theme that gets right into the hearts of men and women and children, too, forms the foundation for "At the Stage Door," William Christy Cabanne's most recent screen attraction, at the Strand today.

The story, written by Mr. Cabanne himself, has to do with the adventures of a girl who leaves her obscure little New York State town because her pretty sister wins her love and then goes to the metropolis and joins the chorus of a musical comedy. It is a faithful picture of theatre life— which occasional glimpses behind the curtain— and rich in the atmosphere of the theatre that motion picture audiences like so well.

RIVIERA MONDAY AND TUESDAY

There was a lot of good natured reminiscing recently when Wm. Christy Cabanne, the director, assembled his all-star cast of film untalents for his current R.C. production, "Beyond the Rainbow," now at the Riviera Theatre.

In "Beyond the Rainbow," Miss Ware portrays the role of the pious Mrs. Nathaniel Gardener, while Maury Harlan, who plays the villain, is the rascally Count Julien de Bressac, a Mexican barber in disguise.

Then there was the case of Mr.

ARTHUR BURCH ON TRIAL AGAIN FOR KENNEDY MURDER

Plotted With Madalynne Obenchain to Bring About Death of Broker is Charge

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—The second trial of Arthur C. Burch, charged with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, broker, at Beverly Glen, a suburb, August 5, 1921, was to start Monday before Superior Judge Sidney N. Reeve.

Burch was indicted jointly with Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain. The prosecution's theory is that they conspired together to bring about Kennedy's death and that Burch fired the shot that killed him.

Burch's first trial ended in a disagreement. Mrs. Obenchain's trial ended March 19 when the jury failed to agree.

BATTERED VICTIM OF MYSTERY ATTACK DIES OF INJURIES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Authorities are unable to account for the mysterious death of J. W. Ogden of Minneapolis and Lorian, Ohio, who was picked up on a busy corner in the business district suffering from injuries which indicated he was the victim of a vicious assault. He died without regaining consciousness the second man to die here under such circumstances and the third victim of such a mysterious assault within a month.

A pedestrian noticed Ogden staggering and fell. He had noticed no attack upon him but when Ogden was picked up his left jaw was broken, there was a long deep gash in his left cheek and there was another cut above his eye. The explanation advanced is that he had been attacked in an alleyway and had staggered into the street in a dazed condition, and had there dropped.

Come on back, summer. We didn't mean what we said about you. It is too easy to feel rich on borrowed money.

RECOVER BODIES OF EIGHT SCOUTS LOST IN DOWAGIAC LAKE

Boat Which Overturned With Boys and Their Leaders Called Death Trap

DOWAGIAC, Mich.—At intervals of half an hour Sunday morning the bodies of eight members of the South Bend Boy Scout troop who were drowned here Saturday were brought to the surface and carried ashore in the boats of the men fishing the bottom of Michigan lake with grappling nets.

The scout executive, his 9-year-old son, two scoutmasters, and four Boy Scouts were drowned Sunday afternoon when their boat sank half way to an island where the scouts intended to erect a summer camp.

Early Hunt For Bodies
At daylight residents of this city began to hunt for the bodies. The first to be recovered was that of J. Taylor, 36, executive, who, with his son, was the last to succumb after the others had gone down for the last time. Taylor's widow was prostrated at her home in South Bend.

Philip Neitzel, 13, was the second to be brought up from the bottom of the lake. The others, checked off as they were brought ashore, were Scoutmaster Vern C. Murphy, 22, survived by a widow; Scoutmaster Jackson Taylor, 23; Kenneth Berrough, 14; William Kingsley, 14, and Clinton Matthews, 15.

Grouped on the shore were the fathers of the boys, the mothers remaining in seclusion at nearby farmhouses.

Boat Called a Deathtrap
When the last body was recovered the grapplers found the boat in which the eight lost their lives. It was made of galvanized iron, had a flat bottom, with small dry chambers fore and aft, was 15 feet long and 3 feet 9 inches beam. The motor, swinging over the stern, weighed sixty pounds, and old lake men said it was a death trap. They said the victims never had a chance after they put out from shore to Hemlock island, nearly a mile away.

Coroner S. E. Bryant allowed relatives to take the bodies back to Indiana without the formality of an inquest. The summer camp may be abandoned this year for the South Bend troop.

THREE CANDIDATES IN CONTEST FOR MAYOR OF TOMAH

All Office Seekers to Make Speeches at Public Meeting Monday Evening

TOMAH, Wis.—A stiff three-cornered fight for the office of mayor is on in this city, the candidates being the incumbent, Gustave A. Leuk, who has served two terms, Charles B. Drowatzky, cashier of the Bank of Tomah, and Ben Nuzum, a prominent business man. The Tomah League of Women Voters, Mrs. James Rowan, president, has invited the three candidates to address a public meeting of citizens on Monday evening, March 27. Besides the three candidates for the office of mayor, all other candidates for city office are asked to speak at the mass meeting and women voters are especially urged to be present.

Fifteen car loads of poles have been unloaded at the Tomah freight depot for the American Telephone and Telegraph company and are being distributed on the lines south, north and west of this city. The replacement of poles and repair lines is progressing rapidly.

The citizens of the village of Oakdale, Monroe county, have been successful in securing the re-opening of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway station, and the re-establishing of the station agent. The Wisconsin railroad commission had announced a hearing of the complaints of citizens regarding the closing of the office and the removal of the agent. Before the date of the hearing Superintendent C. W. Thies of the C. M. and St. P. Ry. Co. announced that they had reinstated the agent and that the station would not again be closed except on agreement with the complainants.

CHILD'S PLEA SAVED FATHER FROM DEATH AT HANDS OF BANDIT

CHICAGO.—A childish plea, "Mister Bandit, please don't shoot Daddy; he'll give you his money," caused one of two holdup men who were robbing a drug store late Sunday to withhold fire from a pistol pointed at Thomas Murphy. Murphy showed fight and one robber had knocked him down. He surrendered $75 and sixty-four pints of whisky, a quantity of narcotics, and $75 was stolen from the drug store in which Murphy and his little son were customers.

MOTHER!
Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup"

Hurry mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION
Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

$2,000 PROMISED RUSHFORD LIBRARY BY HUGH COOPER

Famous Engineer Offers to Assist City in Furnishing the Proposed New Building

RUSHFORD, Minn.—The Tri-County Record of this city announces the organization here of a "Moppy" Anderson Club, with the slogan of "Moppy" Anderson insists that his campaign be conducted along fair and square lines. The Rushford Post, American Legion of which he is a member, has elected the following executive committee for his campaign: Chairman, Edgar Egeen; Sec.-Treas., Dr. K. M. Knudson; Olaf Johnson, Henry Lomax, Forest Aire, J. A. Pederson, Ben Reishus.

Plans are being discussed for the enlarging and remodeling of the present public library building in this city; the rapidly-increasing number of patrons demanding added room. It is proposed to raise the old building and erect a structure that will not only house the library itself, but will include a reading-room, a public room with attached kitchenette, two cloak-rooms, a furnished lounge or club-room, with attached kitchenette, besides coal and furnace rooms.

At a recent meeting of the Library Board it was found that a building that would include all these might be satisfactorily erected at a cost of $8,000, if built upon the proposed site of the old library.

Some time ago, there was given to the Women's Welfare League of Rushford the promise of $2,000; half to be used for furnishing a new library and reading-room, half to be used for new books. The money will be immediately available when work is commenced upon a new, or remodeled library building. This substantial sum will come from Hugh Cooper, world famous engineer, Mr. Cooper was for many years a resident of Rushford and is still proud to call this city his old home.

The project of building is one requiring a special election, since the time elapsing between now and the general city elections this spring, is insufficient for advertising the matter, as is required by law covering such proposals.

WATCH FOBS JINX TO GIANTS WHO ARE BEATEN BY THE SOX

Commissioner Landis Hands
Out Glittering Presents Just Before Giants Get Beat

CHICAGO, Ill.—Chicago, which would rather beat New York at base ball than in population, had a measure of satisfaction at Dallas Sunday when the White Sox tripped the Giants by a ninth inning rally to the tune of 8 to 7.

John McGraw's world champions were all the more chagrined inasmuch as they had just received from Commissioner Landis glittering new watch fobs as world's series presents. While the Giants went down, the Yanks, their contenders last fall for premier honors, succumbed to the fire works of the Brooklyn Nationals, 8 to 5. Babe Ruth suffered a slight injury to his side in the third inning while at the plate and retired in the fifth. Dizzy Vance, a former Yankee, verily dazzled his former mates by his excellent hurling.

In the far west another Chicago aggregation, the Cubs, trounced the Angeles of Los Angeles, 6 to 2. Victory, however, was costly. Zeb Terry, Cub second baseman suffering a fractured wrist bone.

SPORT BRIEFS

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion, and Yusef Mahommed, Bulgarian challenger, are scheduled to clash for a finish wrestling match here Monday night.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Dave Shade of California and Pinkie Mitchell of Milwaukee will meet in a ten round no decision boxing bout here Monday night. Shade recently won fifteen rounds with Jack Britton, welterweight champion. It is Mitchell's first engagement since illness forced cancellation of his New Year's bout with Benny Leonard, lightweight champion.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Art Staff, champion professional ice skater, has entered the world's professional roller skating championship to be held here April 3-9. Heretofore Staff has skated in several roller events as amateur.

LA CROSSE HIGH SCHOOL CREDITED WITH STAGING BIGGEST UPSET IN MEET

BY BOB DUNN

Although the La Crosse high school five was eliminated from championship consideration by New Richmond which team was defeated by the flashy Fond du Lac aggregation for the state high school championship, the Red and Black five goes the credit for staging the biggest upset of the annual Badger prep school tournament at Madison last week-end.

Watertown, with 18 straight victories behind them, chartered a special train and several hundred strong took the city of Madison by surprise on Thursday for the opening games of the tourney. La Crosse's well known and surprising performance in eliminating this strong contender was easily the biggest feature of the interscholastic competition.

Superior's 2 point defeat by University high in a ragged game was also one of the more important developments of the first day. Superior, although without the services of two of its leading players, continued to play a good brand of ball and finished up by winning the consolation trophy, easily defeating Argyle in the closing contest, 23 to 12.

New Richmond, winner over La Crosse, furnished some strong competition for Fond du Lac in the final game of the tournament, but the northern five was clearly outclassed and lost to the better team.

New Richmond Leader
In losing to New Richmond, however, La Crosse lost to a team that had proved itself to be one of the leading high school fives in the state. New Richmond had a long string of victories behind them before coming to Madison. The five had won its district tournament at River Falls with little effort, defeating such strong teams as Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls in so doing and following the tourney, crossed over into Minnesota and trounced Stillwater, which five had recently won the state championship of the Gopher state.

The final contest between New Richmond and Fond du Lac at Madison on Saturday night was one of the speediest and most exciting contests in tournament history. The final count of 22 to 19 indicates that the outcome of the game was in doubt up to the last minute, also Fond du Lac showed a display of the better team work throughout the contest.

The battle brought back recollections of the flashy contest between the fives from Cedar Rapids, Iowa and Winfield, Kansas, in the interstate high school tournament held at Madison two years ago.

New Richmond fought an uphill battle after the first ten minutes of play. For several minutes after the first whistle both teams struggled desperately to break the spell which prevented the ball from rolling through the hoop for either team.

Fondy Scores First

Fond du Lac was the first to get away from the jinx, however, and for the next seven minutes of play the Fondy baskets felt thick and fast and the count mounted to 10 to 1 before the northern five recovered.

Just before the half ended, New Richmond recovered somewhat, however, when Hawkins scored a basket and then a free throw and the count at the half way mark was 12 to 5 with Fond du Lac on the long end.

The start of the second half was a revelation to the crowd. Williams, the tournament's speediest forward, sank a finger for New Richmond and the five rallied with a flash of fast ball that took their opponents off their feet. Hawkins and McDermott, also came through and when the smoke cleared the score had climbed to 13 to 12, with New Richmond leading for the first time in the game.

From then on the battle was nip and tuck, with the large crowd on their feet every minute of the exciting moments that remained.

Breaking the spell, Breitzman tied the count with a long shot from the center of the floor and from then on the state champions were never again headed.

The playing of Breitzman and McKinley of Fond du Lac and Williams and Hawkins of New Richmond stood out clearly in the last battle. These four stars were favorites with the crowds throughout the tournament.

The crowds that witnessed the state high school tournament games this year were larger than they have ever been since the state prep school competition has been held at the state university.

Youngster with great promise, will get the catching assignment as the first-string receiver.

It will be a great opportunity for the youngster. If he can deliver he will be made. Manager Gibson of the Pittsburgh club, a great catcher in his day, is tutoring the youngster. Gibson says Gooch is the goods, and if Schmidt fails to report the youngster will make the Pirate fans forget all about him.

Opportunity is a fipnir thing. I have known players to wait for years to get their chance while others had it literally thrust on them.

TOLEDO, Ohio.—Members of the St. Francis hotel five of St. Paul, the team that landed in second place on the first squad Sunday night, only to be kicked out two hours later by the West Side Alleys, Watertown, Wis., started the ball rolling Monday morning in the minor events of the A. B. C. tournament.

Watertown, Wis., and Bobb, Wis., were represented on later shifts Monday. Wheeling, Bay City, Mich., Madison, Wis., Kenosha, and Detroit, five are on the second shift Monday night.

A. L. Langtry, secretary of the A. B. C., was considering Monday what further action he will take in connection with the Buckeye Malt Syrup five of Cincinnati which is alleged to have used an illegal bowler on March 9. Langtry has thrown out the scores and may bring about suspension of the team, it was said.

IMITATE FROGS AND MINNOWS

Take two pork strips and tie them together at the head and let the ends hang loose and you have a good imitation of a frog. It has a mighty fine motion in the water at that. A pork rind strip with a No. 3 spoon makes a fine casting bait and is most effective when used on a tandem hook which is made especially for pork rind baits.

You can vary your pork rind baits to imitate a minnow or frog. To make the latter bait, it is only necessary to cut a wider piece of pork and split the tail into two legs. The fact that the pork is fresh and limber makes it take a very lifelike motion through the water, and at the same time when a fish strikes a pork rind bait it does not immediately throw it out of its mouth, as is the case with wooden baits. The pork has more of the soft feel of the live bait to the fish, and it's a twenty-to-one shot that he'll try to swallow it.

HERE IS ANSWER TO THE BASEBALL PROBLEM

Below is given the correct solution to the baseball problem which appeared in the Tribune on March 8. While this is a correct solution it does not follow that other answers cannot also be correct. In looking over the answers to the problem received from local fans, it has been found that the competition for the season passes is ripe and will require another day to decide in order that the rewards go to the authors of the three best solutions. The names of the winners will be published on Tuesday.

Remember, six batters stepped to the plate. A base on balls, single, double, and triple were batted and three balls knocked over the fence in fair territory when they passed out of the playing field. Apparently eight runners crossed the plate. Not a run was scored.

Here it is:
The first batter up hit the ball over the fence and made the circuit of the bases.

The ball was in fair territory when it passed over the fence. However, when it finally passed from the view of the umpire it was in foul territory. That made it a foul ball. The umpire so ruled.

That makes one runner who crossed the plate yet didn't score a run. The same batter then hit a long drive to the outfield on which he made three bases. As the runner rounded third he wanted to continue on to the plate, the coach, however, grabbed him and shoved him back to third.

The throw to the plate got away from the catcher and the runner, getting to his feet, crossed the plate.

This made the second runner to cross the plate. The run, however, did not count as the umpire called the baserunner out because of the coach's interference.—One out.

The second batter hit one over the fence and completed the circuit of the bases, while the crowd cheered wildly.

When he reached the plate the umpire informed him that the catcher had tipped his bat. This act on the part of the catcher made the home run void and entitled the batsman to first base only.

Three runners have now crossed the plate, yet no runs have been scored.

The third batter singled, sending the runner on first to second.

The fourth batter doubled, sending the runner on second across the plate and the runner on first to third.

The runner originally on second, who crossed the plate on the hit, failed to touch third base. The ball was thrown to that base and the umpire declared the runner out who had apparently scored.—Two out.

This makes four runners who have crossed the plate and yet none have actually scored.

The fifth batter receives a base on balls, filling the bases.

The sixth batter hits a home run, the three runners on the bases crossing the plate ahead of him.

It was then discovered that the batsman had hit out of order. An appeal was made to the umpire. He declared the proper batsman out. This made the third out and erased the four runs that had apparently scored on the hit.

These four runners, who had crossed the plate, in addition to the four who had previously made the circuit, make eight runners in all crossing the plate, yet no runs were scored.

The first out was due to the coach's interference, the second because of the failure of a runner to touch a base, the third because a player had batted out of order. In no case was a player retired by being actually touched with the ball.

Thus a base on balls, a single, double and triple were made and three balls hit over the fence, all being in fair territory when they passed out of the playing field, without a run being scored.

are very successful bait, especially for casting. Take one piece about one and a half inches across the top, two inches long and one inch thick. Taper this down to half an inch at the end and cut off the end except at the thickest end. Decorate this chunk with red yarn around the head and you have an A-1 casting bait.

If you don't want to bother with making your own pork rind baits, you can get the strips in bottles or the chunks in boxes at your tackle store, but a lot of the fun of fishing comes from doing up the bait yourself that later lands the big ones, perhaps.

In hooking the pork rind, hook it close up to the end so that the balance of the bait is loose and free to move with the water as it is reeled in. (Copyright, 1922, Stewart Kidd Co.)

ARRANGEMENTS FOR CUE CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH COMPLETED

All 1700 Reserved Seats at Orchestra Hall Sold for Opening Block

CHICAGO, Ill.—Preparations were completed for the 1500 balking billiard match for the world's championship, which starts Monday between Willie Hoppe, former champion, and Jake Schaeffer, who won the title from Hoppe a few months ago.

The players Monday were given the some careful physical attention accorded championship prize fighters a few hours before the bout, while the table and equipment were groomed and prepared just as a race horse would be before the Kentucky Derby.

Five hundred points will be played on each of the three nights, the balls being shot from where they were at the end of the preceding night's play.

A special corps of workmen has been appointed to care for the table and balls. Monday afternoon the table was erected on the stage at Orchestra hall, where usually only such personages as John McCormick, Fritz Kreisler and other famous artists appear.

Betting on the match remained at even money. The players will split the profits, 60 per cent to Schaeffer as present champion, and 40 per cent to Hoppe as challenger. All the 1700 seats have been sold.

Spring Training Gossip

(By BILLY EVANS)

Very often opportunity knocks at one's door in a most peculiar manner. This is particularly true in base ball.

Last year the New York club of the American League had its doubts about its catching staff. The worth of Wally Schang was known, but would the two second string catchers be able to carry the burden if Schang was injured?

Schang is a glutton for work. Until the last month of the season he caught practically every game. Then came the unexpected. He was injured in a friendly scuffle with Babe Ruth.

On the New York club was Catcher Devormer who had been secured on a one-year option. Up to the time of Schang's injury there was some doubt as to his ability to deliver. That caused him to get few chances to show.

Then came the injury to Schang. It put the issue up to Huggins. He was forced to call upon Devormer. Given a real chance, Devormer showed that he was a corking fine catcher. He can hit, throw, receive and is fleet of foot.

Schang's injury made it necessary to use Devormer. It gave the substitute his chance. Likewise it settled the catching problem as far as the Yankees are concerned. Devormer has proved his ability to take his regular turn if desired.

The suspension of Bob Muesel and Babe Ruth may be the cause of the Yankees developing an outfielder who might otherwise be overlooked in the shuffle.

Among the recruits now working out at New Orleans is "Finky" Haines, former Pennsylvania State College star. Haines is an outfielder. He is a good judge of fly balls, has a fine arm and is very fast. His hitting is uncertain.

Huggins is hard put for outfielders to fill the vacancies caused by the absence of Ruth and Muesel from the lineup. It is said that the Yankee manager may decide to give Haines a chance.

It will be an unusual opportunity for a kid player, who would otherwise never be considered as a regular so quickly. If Haines gets the chance and is able to hit, he will be made.

Then there is the case of Catcher Schmidt of the Pittsburgh club. He is said to be holding out for $10,000 a year and a three-year contract. Barney Dreyfus says that he won't get it. That means that Gooch, a

BEAVER BOARD

BEAVER QUALITY

FOR BETTER WALLS & CEILINGS

You've always wanted to fix it up. Do it now—this spring.

With Beaver Board you can transform your attic into two or three permanent and altogether livable rooms—and at remarkably small cost. The large, flawless panels are made just the size to go over joists or studding with a minimum of sawing or waste. Nail up the Beaver Board, paint it if you want a decorated room, add the good-looking wood strips, and the job is done—you've added much to the value of your home and to your own pleasure in it.

Genuine Beaver Board is knotless, manufactured lumber, made from white spruce logs. Each panel is sized and sealed by the patented Sealite process which provides a perfect painting surface.

You handle Beaver Board just like ordinary lumber, only far more easily—and without the customary muss and litter. You can nail it directly over old plaster and be sure of an attractive, permanent result. There is no better or more economical material for making over old, shabby rooms, erecting partitions, finishing up the interiors of new buildings, enclosing offices or doing a wide variety of similar jobs.

Tell any carpenter or lumber dealer in town about the Beaver Boarding you want to do. He will gladly give you an estimate.

Insist upon having genuine Beaver Board. Look for the famous Beaver Quality trade-mark. Be sure it is on the board you buy.
